Tax Sources Vulnerable To Quick, Drastic Changes

By LLOYD BAKER

The provincial budget for the coming fiscal year has been balanced at a whopping $118,269,000. This is $12,710,483 higher than last year's record budget of $105,558,517 which was over-expended by $11,479,483.

Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb made these facts known in his two-hour budget speech to the Legislature today, his fifth since taking the province's purse strings in hand, In the speech he issued stern warnings on the state of the province's financial structure in connection with the governnent's humanitarian program and in the face of critical world

Repeating what he told the Legislature in his budget speech last year,, the minister said that unless the foundation and structure of the economy of B.C. is strengthened, the wide social services being provided would suffer.

Debts must not be incurred for non-revenue producing services unless more was spent in developing natural resources to revenue comes from three sources of taxation, all of which were vulnerable to rapid and directle characteristics. drastic changes.

They were the sales tax (estimated to bring $26,000,000 in the coming year); the gasoline tax (to bring $12,500,000); and liquor (to bring $17,500,000).

As long as conditions were buoyant and the nation fully employed without war, these sources of revenue, it was felt, will be well maintained; but even a slight depression could affect all of them seriously.

In the event of war, the gaso line tax revenue alone could be cut sharply with the possibility of rationing returning, Mr. Ans-comb said. With no increases in taxes in the coming year, Mr. Anscomb said revenue could be anticipated at $118,502,889, an increase of $12,671,700 from last year's es

With expenditures of $118,269. 000 planned, the government was budgeting for a nominal sur-000 plus of $233.889. Returning again to the grim note he introduced earlier, Mr. Anscomb said: "We may have to make economic adjustments as may be forced upon us by the policies of other nations and. more particularly, by those of the United States where we sell far the greater portion of our goods, and from where we buy most of our imports which, incidentally, include many vital necessities.

"We shall have to be constantly prepared to review our financial plans, And, should needs require it, we shall have to curtail or postpone, or even abandon projects now contemplated from either capital or

Forecasts More Subsidization

Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb is afraid higher premiums and partial payment of hospital bills will not put the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service on a sound financial footing.

He suggested in his budget speech to the Legislature today that further subsidization of the scheme will be looked for when the service closes its books at the end of the coming fiscal year.

$4,000,000 BEHIND

there is a $4.050,000 deficit in the service in the current fiscal year which was $1,500,000 more than anticipated.

This will bring to $12,750,000 the amount that has had to be provided from consolidated revenue and other sources to cover the deficits of the service since its inception.

NOT SELF-SUSTAINING

The scheme was never in tended to be self-sustaining in its entirety, Mr. Anscomb said.

Since started the service will have spent $42,460,000 by March 31 next. Mr. Anscomb said. Of have contributed about $13, 340,000 or nearly one-third.

In the coming year the service estimated expenditures at $19. 984,000, and the payment for this amount will be made from $13,-303,000 from insurance premi-ums collected; $825,000 repre-senting the 70 cents per diem contributable by the municipalities; and $5,856,000 from provincial funds which include the 70 cents per diem grant, premiu and co-insurance paid on behalf of pensioners and social assist-ance cases, and the subsidy.

OPEN SEASON

THIS BEING the "open season" for those who go hunting the allegedly pachydermous hides of politicians, I read with avidity an editorial item in the Philadelphia Enquirer of a week or so ago about an elected official in Laramie County, Wyoming.

ems that the gentleman in question ran his campaign for the office of county commissioner on a platform which included, among other planks, a promise "to be reasonably honest." Despite that qualification—or perhaps because of his naivete and honesty in thus qualifying it—he beat the other candidates to the post by a comfortable majority

SOON REPUBLATED

HOWEVER, FOR ALL his air of grassroots frankness, the as openly repudiated all his campaign promises, including the one alluded to above. As the Philadelphia Enquirer

"It's common knowledge that some candidates make all sorts of fantastic promises during campaigns that they never live up to and never intended to. It's moderately diverting when a winning candidate admits he was just suffering from the occupational diseases of his kind when he loosely tossed off pledges by the dozen."

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

THAT RATHER amusing incident, while it by no means excuses the perpetrator of such political frauds, serves to emphasize the difficulties which more conscientious repre-sentatives of the people face in trying to live up to the ex-pectations of their constituents.

Quite apart from the problem of how to meet the demands of organized pressure groups and, at the same time, do what you think is in the best interests of the people as a whole and the longer you are in politics the more you realize how widely the people themselves differ on the question of what is in their own best interests there is the problem of the consistent "kicker" and the "what's in it for me" variety to

THOSE OFFICE.SEEKERS

IRISH LETTER

EVEN MORE diverting was the letter an Irish member, who was elected for an Ulster constituency, received from one of his supporters asking for a favor. "I voted for you under 13 different names," said the writer, "could anyone do more for you than that?"

Apropos of the demands made upon legislators, I chuckled at a reference in MacDonagh's book, "Pageant of Parlia-ment" to Rt. Hon. John Morley. At a time when he was seeking re-election to the Newcastle-on-Tyne seat an elector, who was asked to vote for this British statesman of the high-est and purest ideals, indignantly exclaimed: "Not me! What has John Morley ever done for the Rugger Football Club?"

And, from the same source, comes the story—guaranteed true—of the British M.P. who, tired of being badgered for subscriptions, donations and "favors," had printed the emphatic answer to all such appeals. It read: "I was elected for . . . as Member of Parliament, not as Relieving Officer."

B.C. Can Make Weapons

PREMIER CAMPBELL OF MANItoba has proposed a plan of industrial mobilization which has a special interest for British Columbia. The Federal Government, he says, should set up an advisory council which would help to organize defence orders for small manufacturing concerns. He is afraid that in the rush to build weapons all the business will go to big firms, mostly in the east, and the possible contribu-tions of small firms will be overlooked.

No province except Ontario and Quebec can contribute as much to the de-fence program, in the form of manu-factured goods, as British Columbia.

Like Manitoba, British Columbia does not expect any defence article to be built here if it can be built more cheaply somewhere else. There will be general agreement with the policy laid down in Parliament by Mr. Howe, who says he wishes to buy at the cheapest source.

Mr. Howe argues soundly that it will be folly for the Government to set up large new industries in places where they cannot be converted later to successful civilian production. If factories are established according to the presof local politics, regardless of cost and efficiency, the public will pay an unnecessary cost in taxes and local communities will pay a worse cost in dis-location when the factories close.

possible the existing industries of Can-ada to produce the goods he needs. Mr. Campbell urges him to use the industries of the west which have proved, by their success in normal times, that they

Some small western industries will have to reduce their operations or close altogether if they are deprived of raw materials needed for defence and if they are not given defence orders.

That threat faces many British Co lumbia industries. All they have a right to ask, all that Mr. Campbell has a is that the little manufacturer shall have the right to tender for orders and get them if his tender is competitive.

In the complexities of rearmament busy Government may easily overlook the chance to use small industries to make the various component parts of armaments. The advisory council urged by Mr. Campbell could keep the Govern-ment constantly informed of these opportunities.

Meanwhile it is satisfactory to hear from Mr. Howe that he intends to disperse the whole defence manufacturing program as widely as possible, will rely on existing industries rather than build new ones and will expand the industries of such big cities as Toronto and Montreal only "as a last resort."

New Hands On The Reins

NO CHANGE IS EXPECTED IN Britain's basic foreign policy as the result of Mr. Herbert Morrison's succession to the post vacated by Mr. Ernest Bevin. Correspondents inform us, how-ever, that some difference may be noted in the manner of enforcing policy because of differences in person because of differences in personality between its present and former chief architect.

Mr. Bevin was blunt, candid, and so typically British that he appeared in international conferences to be the embodiment of John Bull himself. His methods, in the opinion of some foreign diplomats, were too unyielding. In the last year, broken by his long public service, he had been unable to perform his duties fully and difficulties inevitably arose both in devising and executing foreign policy.

History will rank Mr. Bevin, however, high in the list of those who have held an office second only to that of the Prime Minister. Mr. Dean Acheson, bidding goodbye to Mr. Bevin, after their last conference, spoke honestly when he said to the British officials: "Take good care of Ernie. The world cannot afford to lose him."

The world, unfortunately, has lost him as an international statesman, but his sound judgment and wise counsel remain at the service of Britain.

His successor, Mr. Morrison, a Cockney who has come up the hard way, is a very different man—cheerful, gregarious, flexible and transparently honest. His political education has been centred in the domestic issues of Britain and his greatest usefulness to the Government has been in the management of practical politics. Though it may be difficult for him to master the infinite complexities of foreign affairs, he is the ablest man Mr. Attlee could find within the Government for this most important

The world is waiting to see how the conciliatory, pragmatic methods of Mr. Morrison will work in the intense diplomatic struggle now under way among the Big Four, and in the deepening problems of Asia, especially Malaya.

Mr. Johnson Acts Wisely

PREMIER JOHNSON SHOWS GOOD judgment and not a little courage when he rejects the opportunity to impose a hidden, indirect sales tax. British Columbia, he says, will continue to levy its sales tax directly and visibly, so that every purchaser of goods may know precisely what he is paying to the

Mr. Johnson does not object to the Parliament, by which the provinces could collect a three per cent sales tax indirectly and invisibly in the sale of goods. It is for each province to adopt or reject this method once the amendment has been approved. British Columbia rejects it.

Apart from the fact that taxes should be kept as visible as possible so that everybody knows what he is paying, there is another sound reason for Mr. Johnson's policy. If British Columbia used the proposed indirect tax it would ately Mr. Johnson understands this.

be limited to the existing rafe of three per cent. While it is to be hoped that this rate will be sufficient to finance the Government's costs it may not be, if the costs continue to rise. Mr. Johnson evidently does not wish to tie his hands, or the hands of his successors in the future. This takes courage since the Government could escape most of the public's objection to a visible tax by making it invisible.

Canada will soon have all the invisible sales taxes it can afford. Undoubtedly in its forthcoming budget the Federal Government will increase the existing Dominion sales tax of eight per cen either in rate or area or both. now it is too often forgotten that on many classes of goods the buying price

Why Curtail Daylight Saving?

THE SUGGESTION THAT DAYLIGHT saving should be confined to July and August will not make sense to most and August will not make sense to most people. If daylight saving is a good thing why shouldn't the public enjoy it throughout the spring, summer and early autumn months?

Once the sun rises early enough most people, we imagine, will wish to get up absorb as much sunshine as possible and have the long evenings for

The only serious objection comes from parents who say that children refuse to go to sleep in daylight at the prescribed hour. We have been using daylight saving for a good many years and the children raised under this schedule appear to be as healthy as their parents, or healthier, because they get more sunshine. A majority of Canadians seems to desire daylight saving on the extended plan and is

The Week-End Holiday

NDER A PRIVATE MEMBER'S BILL now before Parliament nearly all statutory holidays in Canada would be celebrated on Monday. For example, if Dominion Day, July 1, fell on Thursday, it would be celebrated on the Monday following. In this way the working week would not be interrupted and Canadians would enjoy a series of long week-ends when they could get out into the country or seek healthful recreation

The idea is so sound that one wonders why it was not introduced into the law-long ago. The recent resolution in favor of it by the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce shows that it has at least some local support. If the public thinks the question over we believe its endorsement will be almost unanimous.

In Parliament, a few members, led by Mr. Howard Green of Vancouver-Quadra, object that if Dominion Day is not celebrated on July 1 it will somehow lose its national significance. We are asked to believe that because Confederation was proclaimed on July 1 it cannot be cele.

brated just as well on June 30 or July 2. On the contrary, if the Canadian people have a long and happy week-end in mid-summer they will be all the more likely to mark, remember and revere the historic meaning of the holiday. In these nerve-wracking times public holidays are needed to refresh everybody. It is pre-posterous that they should neak up the week when they could be arranged to provide a real breathing space several times a year.

Anybody who wants long week-ends should write his member of Parliament before the present legislation is allowed, like so many private members' bills, to die on the order paper.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

PROBABLY it was the mad gaiety of St. David's Day that made me over-look at that time a Canadian Press dis-patch from London about the new trend in tattooing. In case you overlooked it yourself, I must hasten to inform you tattoo lovers that fashion has decreed a new daintiness of outline and more subtle coloration. Pastel shades are the rage now. Violent col.

ors have had their day. The leader of the tattoo world, Mr. George Burchett (aged 78) possibly feels his own ardent fires dying down into something mellower. At any rate, CP quotes him as say-ing: "The King of Den-Brock red, green, and blue dragon on the royal chest) was in the classical nautical tradition. Which is proper, because he is Admiral of the Danish Navy. It isn't that His Majesty is in bad taste. It's just that for land-lubbers the mode is in the direction of more whimsical conception and more subdued treatment."

PAR be it from rie to bandy words with the leading critic and master of his day. But it appears to me that the whole realm of tattooing is an extremely whimsical conception. How can you get tattooed at all if not the victim of either a private whim or the whimsical custom of a certain group? I do not refer to the Oxford Group, or to any Air Force group, or the islanders of the San Juan group. No, no, I am alluding to what the late Alan Breck Stewart called a wheen tarry sailors. I am all in favor of either individual or group eccentricity. There isn't nearly enough of it, and it diminishes daily, more's the pity. Whims

All I am maintaining here is that any piece of tattooing is the whimsical equal of any other. Except, possibly in the case of tattooed and imperishable claims about perishable love . . . those are whimsical conceptions in a class of their

AS for a more subdued treatment, two points occur to me. How can you get subdued exhibitionism? It seems to me a contradiction in terms, as if you spoke of bashful effrontery or the inaudible murmur of a drunken riot. And in any event, you want to be good and sure that your artist's pigments are not going to fade into a tired grey smear before you let him go ahead with a palette already subdued. Half the charm of an Old Master, in certain eyes, is that painter's colors have dimmed with the centuries. If the painter had used colors originally toned down, you couldn't see his blinking picture at all today.

IT may well be that Maitre Burchett buys or makes colors of the most may be fresh as ever 100 years from now (though perhaps a little shrunken in actual acreage as opposed to tone and hue). But I have seen quite decent work that has mellowed a great deal inside one short generation. It is on the arms of a naval friend of mine, and consists of a dragon on each forearm. In 1928 or so, these dragons were vividness itself. They looked like neon signs. By 1939 they had lost some of the old zip. They sneered at me, but didn't blaze at me. In 1949, when I last met them, they were something like stage grandmothers. That is to say, they were great characters, or tried to be; they were the most obvious thing on the stage; and they liked to snap at people in a firm falsetto. But they were dressed in lilac satin and ivory lace, so to speak, and everyone loved

NOW if those dragons had been originally tinted instead of being squeezed straight out of the tube, with gobs and gobs of white stirred into their alizarin crimson and veridian green to turn them into False Dawn Pink and Early wood Green . . . well, they'd be mighty pasty worms today. The blue has lasted better, but even it I recall as a deep cobalt, while now it is a light French ultramarine. And my friend would no longer have me hesitate to go swimming with him, which would disappoint him keenly, for he fancies it does me good to be embarrassed. As perhaps it does ... at least it keeps me from catching cold by fooling round the beach too long, while men stare at him.

IT IS TRUE that his reformed dragons were done while he was on the China Station by some Chinese or Japanese artist. That is where most sea-going dragons used to be tattooed. they were a badge (though not exactly a ribbon or even a ribbon-worm) of service in those waters. But most Chinese and Japs are natural artists and might easily know what they were doing. If most colors fade into a pleasant and now modish pastel effect, it might be better and more permanent to start off a little boldly. And if the fading, in the case of such things as dragons, is rather a pity in the eyes of tattoo-lovers, it is well to start off some-thing more than boldly . . . with all the brutal assault of a kindergarten kid as raw as his palette.

AND now, in closing up my little tattooing booth for today, I wish to remark that exhibitionism and skin troubles may be closely allied. This of the authority of both psychiatrists and skin doctors. The glassic example, of course, is tattooing. In fact, tattooing is a triple skin trouble. It troubles him that gives and him that takes, as well as those who simply stand and stare.

WHEAT BOARD . . .

Your editorial, "We Pay the Gamble," amuses me. There has been a lot said pro and con, about the Wheat Board supplying Britain the first two years of the contract wheat at $1.55 per bushel, but nothing has been said about the prairie wheat farmers supplying the mil-lers of this country with wheat at 77c per bushel, so that the price of bread should be kept down for the Canadian people. This also was done through the

Wheat Board.

Now I don't think the taxpayers have any kick about the $65 millions after the wheat grower supplied them with wheat at 77c per bushel for two years. I myself bought bread here in Victoria for five cents per loaf at that time. I have no kick about supplying cheap wheat to Britain, as we all know what that country went through during the last war. I also would not like for the Wheat Board to quit, as I know the 43 years that I have been growing wheat, it is the only four years that we had a stabilized market.

I saw a report that the Grain Exchange was thinking of moving from Winnipeg to the head of the Lakes.

I would like them to move out in the middle of the Lake, and go down under and stay there. I think the majority of farmers favor the Wheat Board

AND THE FARMERS

Your editorial of March 6 gives an unfair picture of prairie farmers. Wheat farmers were and still are compelled to deliver their wheat to the Canadian Wheat Board, whether in a Wheat Pool

Mr. Gardiner made the contract with Britain for the Canadian Government The low price was supposed to help Britain's war effort. The farmers were not gambling through the Government-they had no choice in the deal. Tha contract helped all the citizens of Canada to buy flour at a lower price compare the price of wheat that the U.S. farmers were getting. Also there must have been a two farmers who risked their money by buying Government bonds, and

The wording of the editorial might give some people the impression that a farmer is a different kind of animal Canadian citizen. He has had to wait for this payment on his wheat and now that payment is also worth less-about 40c on the dollar.

A. R. BOOTH. 243 Kingston St.

Editor's Note: The record, as quoted here before, shows that all the great prairie farm organizations approved of the wheat deal not as aid to Britain or the Canadian consumer but as a method of security and profit to the Canadian farmer. Some farmers no doubt were opposed to the deal and are opposed to the Wheat Board's present managed to the Wheat Board's present monopoly of wheat sales, but no sizeable minority of farmers is publicly proposing any change in the policy of government sale. All parties supported that system and the British wheat deal in Parliament.

SAANICH SEWERS

At a Saanich Council meeting, the reeve says that six and a half mills reeve says that six and a hair milishas to be added to taxes again this year. Taxes in .Saanich have nearly doubled in the last five years. "We must economize where we can," the reeve

Then the council discusses putting in a sewage system, the cost to the householder, depending on the foot frontage of his property, to be anywhere from $15 up, each year for 30 years, with an additional service charge of $5 per year, and on top of that $66 for connecting to the sewer. Nothing is said about the additional expense to each householder of piping his present pl ing to the main sewer, another $150 or $200, and possibly more.

We are told that the sewage system is necessary for reasons of health. I contend that Saanich, with its septic tanks, is just as healthy as Esquimalt, Victoria or Oak Bay with their sewage systems, and that all four municipalities are anything but un-healthy places in which to live.

I think it is time our municipal councils were composed of housewives. I am sure they would not waste their time trying to add expense to an already overburdened people.

Mr. Pepper Disagrees

A brief study of the published address by your editor, Mr. Hutchison, at the Y.M.C.A. recently on page 12 of March 2 issue, makes it clear that either he or I have misunderstood democracy, and our degree of tolerance of differing opinion must be the measure of our individual concept of the meaning of that

Mr. Hutchison stated that democracy was essentially a product of Christianity. But on the contrary Christianity has never been democratic. It has always taken the autocratic stand and insisted "You think, accept and act as I say you must or you will be damned." And your speaker added, "Democracy cannot long endure if we abandon faith in God," and he expressed alarm at the growing "Godlessness" of our age. May I point out that during 1,600 years of "Dark Ages" there was plenty of "Godliness" but no democracy.

A fair, unbiased study of Christian history will prove that democracy has never been a characteristic of Christianity, which has always been autocratic As proof we see right now 400 million Catholic people whose thinking is con-trolled for them by one autocrat Christian, the Pope. And we have seen the Christian Protestant burning 9,000,000 innocent women as witches, we see him using the lash, the stake, the thumbscrew and the rack as his ideas of Mr. Hutchison also stated that the only large geographical progress democracy has made in this century is in India and Pakistan and is not yet fully established there. But India and Pakistan are not Christian.

Your editor was free to express his opinion. His attitude in his treatment of mine will reflect his understanding of the real meaning of democracy. My opinion is that the autocracy of his financial dictator and overlord forbids the publication of any counter opinion. And while that seems to be Christianity, it most definitely is not democracy.

for is very great in-deed. But it is impor-tant to realize that the Kremlin also risk a very great stake in order to gain this prize.

No offer to "unify" Germany will be treated seriously, either by the Western Germans or the Western allies, which does not include a guarantee of free does not include a guarantee of free elections in East Germany. There is no doubt at all that the iron Communist control of East Germany would collapse instantly in any free election. And East Germany has become a property of immense importance to the Kremlin.

The great increase in East German productivity is of course far more beneproductivity is of course far more beneficial to the Kremlin than to the East German people. Thirty per cent of the industry, including such great plants as the former I.G. Farben chemical complex at Bitterfeld, are directly owned by the Russian government. These not merely produce for Russian accounts but also pay a handsome profit. The remaining industry, of which about two-thirds is owned by the East German state, produces reparations out of current produc-tion for Russia to the tune of about 1,500,000,000 marks per year.

OCCUPATION COSTS

Heavy occupation costs relieve the Kremlin of supporting its huge army in East Germany, and the East German taxpayer also pays the whole cost of operating the uranium mines in the Erzegebirge, where nearly 250,000 workers are employed extracting radioactive ores for Marshal Beria's atomic project.

Finally almost all German industrial concerns are buying agents for the Kremlin, securing from West Germany and elsewhere in West Europe an enormous volume of critical and strategic materials and equipment. For example, the Wismut A.G. not merely runs the Erzegebirge mines, but also buys in the West all sorts of special items needed by Marshal Beria's project in Russia.

Some of the Soviet returns from East Germany therefore cannot be valued. It is not going too far, however, to say that in hard dollar values, the Kremlin extracts from this single small province empire, with a population of only 17,000,000 people, an annual revenue in goods and products of more than $2,000,000,000.

In short, what is seen here in East Germany is a new imperialism so total and so unashamed that it would make Lord Clive himself sink into the ground for very envy. Because of their hardworking character and submissiveness to authority, the East Germans have now adapted themselves to this new imperialism better than any of the other satel-lites. The question remains, whether the Soviets will wish to gamble this model province in order to halt the rearmament of the West,

B.C. will save over $1,300,000 in the coming year switch to the R.C.M.P. in the policing of the province, Legislature was told today.

Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb revealed in his budget speech to the House that the saving in the current year will amount to $95,000.

Both amounts were reached on the basis of B.C. Police Force estimates for 1950-51. They totalled $1,868,000. The R.C.M.P. took over from

Sudden-Death Games Scheduled Wednesday Night

Dick Irvine's Meteors lived to their name at the morial Arena. Pessinistically counted out of the playoffs weeks ago, they rocketed last night to a 2 to 0 victory over Navy to force a sudden-death game for fourth place in the Commercial Hockey League standings. Before 2,700 regular fans, and

350 members of the Kiwanis Safety Patrol who were guests of the league, young Derek McCooey won himself $5 with the first shutout since Phil Chan posted the award some weeks

In the first game of the eve ning Rod Hallam and the Civil Service hockey team crowned a late second-half climb when they whipped Douglas Tire 6 to 2.

The licking forced Douglas Tire to move over and make room for the deskmen on the second-place rung. Which team stays there will be decided in a sudden-death game to be held the same night as the Navy-Meteor tilt, Wednesday, Hallam was the howitzer, fir-ing the first three goals for Civil Service, the third actually turning out to be the winner.

CAPS WHIPPED

Capitals made their last appearance after being shunted from the playoffs last week. Caps went down scrapping to a 7 to 3 lacing from the league champions, Fishermen's Co-op.
Flying high for Co-ops was Wilf Clarke, who duplicated Hallam's feat of scoring the first three goals for his team. Never tabbed as a particularly dangerous winger, Clarke caught fire last night and had himself a royal time with a first period finish away out in front as individual scoring champion. Norm LaCree, with a goal and an assist, put himself solidly in second place, and the third mem-ber of Co-ops' first string, Max wanson, is next in line.

But it was the battle for fourth lace and a playoff berth that provided the evening's dramatics. The loser of the Navy-Meteor tilt omorrow night will be elimin-

Young Man With a Plan

Every young man faces two certainties . . . one, that he cannot work forever . . . the other, that he cannot live forever.

As a consequence he must also admit two possibilities . one, that old age may find him financially dependent on others . . . two, that his early death may bring privation to his family.

There is a sure way in which a young man can provide alike for himself in old age or for his family in case of early death. It is to embark upon a definite life insurance programme with an initial policy within his current means. Step by step, thereafter, he can increase his life insurance holdings to keep pace with personal advance-ment and growing responsibilities.

In this way he places — and keeps — his own financial future and that of his dependents beyond the hazards of mere circumstance. He becomes a "Young Man with a Plan":... a more substantial citizen and a happier man because of it.

ESQUIMALT COUNCIL WARNED OF SEPTIC TANK NUISANCE

Septic tanks near Shirley and Forshaw are a noticeable nuisance, Esquimalt Council was told Monday night.

Councillor A. C. Wurtele, health committee chairman passed on details from Elwood S. Gropp, union health board chief sanitary officer who recently made a survey.

The Shirley and Forshaw nuisance would grow worse, Mr Gropp said. While Parklands subdivision tanks appeared all right, he feared the rock ground precluded further installations.

Miners Unhappy About Subsidy

By HARRY YOUNG, Times Business Editor

Finance Minister Abbott does not appear to have solved the survival problem of many of Canada's lower grade ore gold

Mr. Gordon has claimed time he declared, is too small to compensate for the rising costs The increase, he declared, is Hughes on at its organization in 1923, "Never since it was formed has the C.N.R. failed to meet operof mining. Teck Hughes would require $42 an ounce instead of the present dent. Where the train goes off the rails is when it has to meet $35 (U.S.) to be the "financial sins of its predeces the "financial sins of its predeces the "financial sins of its predeces." would m. Sor corporations that cost it $63 millions a year in annual interest charges."

Young says that the only hope for the gold mining. future is an actual increase in ng price of gold. On that score he is not altogether optimistic, although he considers there is a possibility that the International Monetary Fund may be forced to accept revalu-ation of international currencies next year.

(Note—In 1950, Teck Hughes paid a dividend of 15 cents.) An idea of the struggle facing gold mining companies may be seen from the 1950 report of Magnet Consolidated. This mine more than doubled its milled. ore-44 771 tons against 22 262 tons in 1949-and its production was $333,104 against $245,718. Yet rising costs and other diffi-culties increased the loss from $130,528 from the previous year's deficit of $38,895.

tensions are promised.

This good news comes from Harold Blancke, president of Celanese Corporation of America, of whom Columbia Cellulose is a subsidiary.

In his annual report Mr. Blancke says that since last June Celanese of America has been unable to cope with ever its purely military requirement for high-grade yarns. Prince Rupert will go part of the way towards relieving the world-wide shortage, but as a result of many additional activities planned an expansion at Prince Rupert becomes essential as soon as the plant reaches full Rupert from Alberta. Celanese of America last yea doubled their net profit at $40 millions and earned $6.38 per share of common stock.

A simultaneous announcement by Canadian Celanese Ltd shows that this company, too has a record year of profit and production. President Dr. Ca mille Dreyfus records that earn ings per share were $4.72 and profit $6,665,071, with ove $2 million spent on plant improvement and equipment.

Nickel is one industry in which undoubtedly leads the world, and the position is almost entirely in the hands of one firm —the International Nickel Com-pany of Canada with its vast mines and plants at Sudbury

Today, Dr. John F. Thomps president and chairman, announces that in 1950, International Nickel supplied the free world with more nickel than in any peace time year—to wit over 250 million pounds. This great firm in 1950 made $48 millions profit and earned $3.21 on every common share, and this year it estimates it will spend $20 millions on new devel-

London combined.

This year, goes on Dr. Thompson, is the 200th anniversary of the discovery of nickel, but to civilization until comparatively recent times it might just as wellrecent times it might just as well not have existed. The Canadian nickel industry in the past 30 years has pioneered the research and development that has made nickel an essential in a thousand-and-one products of an industrialized society.

With so much unrest and tension in the world oday, and so much propaganda coming out of the Balkan countries, no doubt you have often won-dered, as we have, what life must be like under a Communist regime. Well, we can't offer you a round-trip fare for a first hand visit, but we can, offer you a close-up look through the open "Window or Viscalavia". on Yugoslavia."

During the fall of last year, CBC's famed Euro, pean correspondent, Matthew Halton, and W. Farquharson Small, BBC features producer, traveled extensively in the little Balkan country gathering material and interviewing the inhabitants for a special broadcast to be presented tonight at 10.30 over the combined facilities of CBR, CJVI and CJOR.

They received every co-operation from the Yugoslavs with freedom to move about as they chose. They even got a permit for their camera on short notice—with no restrictions on its use. They visited the people's homes. They were supplied with interpreters—and the people talked, and freely. Their stories, of course, were varied, and to some extent contradictory—with some for and some against the regime. But, most important, Halton and Farquharson Small obtained first-hand knowledge of actual conditions.

Tonight's hour-long report is an eye-witness account of life in a country governed by a Communist regime that has been banished from the Cominform, for deviating from Communist practice as laid down in Moscow. "Window on Yugoslavia" makes no attempt to judge the present way of life in the country, but presents the facts as Halton saw them.

In order to accommodate Matt Halton's peek through the "Window on Yugoslavia," the Dominion Network's Toronto Symphony Pops Concert, usually heard at 10:30 p.m., is cancelled for this week only.

The provincial budget for the coming fiscal year has been balanced at a whopping $118,269,000.

This is $12,710,483 higher than last year's record budget of $105,558,517 which was over-expended by $11,479,483. Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb made these facts bia labor affairs gathered in known in his two-hour budget speech to the Legislature today, Victoria today in an angry his fifth since taking the province's purse strings in hand, In the speech he issued stern warnings on the state of the province's financial structure in connection with the govern-

> Debts must not be incurred for non-revenue producing services unless more was spent in Hearing developing natural resources to create revenue to meet debt costs, he declared. On Rate

Later he pointed to the fact that 47 per cent of provincial revenue comes from three sources of taxation, all of which were vulnerable to rapid and drastic changes.

They were the sales tax (estimated to bring $26,000,000 in the coming year); the gasoline tax (to bring $12,500,000); and liquor (to bring $17,500,000).

As long as conditions were buoyant and the nation fully employed without war, these sources of revenue, it was felt, will be well maintained; but even a slight depression could affect all of them seriously.

In the event of war, the gasoline tax revenue alone could be cut sharply with the possibility of rationing returning, Mr. Anscomb said.

With no increases in taxes in the coming year, Mp. Anscomb said revenue could be anticipated at $118.502.889, an increase of $12,671,700 from last year's estimate.
